DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 9/24/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 3-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Edelson et al. (5737539).

As to claim 1, Edelson et al. discloses a device comprising a network server (206) connected to the network (col. 44, lines 42-45) that is accessible by one or more customers (the physicians are read as customers) via the network (fig. 16); an application server connected to the network server (col. 45, lines 15-30; server (206) is capable of being a cluster of servers which uses applications. Examiner reads one of the disclosed cluster of servers capable of being an applications server); a database (210) connected to the application server, the database containing information concerning drugs and personal information concerning one or more of the customers (the professional using the system is capable of creating a prescription for him/herself); an intranet server that is connected to at least a plurality of member pharmacies and one or more shipping facilities, the intranet being connected to the application server (col. 45, lines 15-30; server (206) is capable of being a cluster of servers which is similar to the World Wide Web and having access restricted to a limited group of authorized customers. Examiner reads one of the disclosed cluster of servers capable of being an intranet server), wherein the application server is configured to allow each of the one or more customers to access the information concerning drugs and personal information concerning each respective customer of the one or more customers and enable each of the one or more customers to transmit a prescription order to at least one of the plurality of member pharmacies and one of the one or more shipping facilities.

As to claim 3, disclosed is prescription history (col. 14, lines 13-15).

As to claim 4, disclosed is a network server that is configured to format display of the prescription history according to a plurality of display formats (fig. 1-14).

As to claim 5, disclosed is a system where the customers can print the information.

As to claim 6, disclosed is the network capable of being the Internet.

As to claim 7, disclosed is a system wherein access to personal information concerning each of the customers includes at least one of the access and viewing of the personal information, editing of the personal information and adding additional information to the person information previously stored.

As to claim 8, disclosed is a system wherein the prescription order includes ordering a new prescription.

As to claim 9, disclosed is a method comprising the steps of accessing a network server (206) capable of hosting a network website (col. 47, lines 1-7) via the network; registering a customer with the network website (it is inherent that a physician with a password is registered with the network); displaying to the customer a prescription order selection (fig. 1-15); displaying one or more prescription order displays to the customer on the website when the customer selects the prescription order selection wherein the customer is allowed to select to transmit a particular prescription order to a communication network that connects at least one of plurality of pharmacies and one or more distribution facilities (fig. 1-15); and displaying one or more pharmacy data access displays to the customer when the customer selects the pharmacy data access selection wherein the customer is allowed to access a personal prescription history.

As to claim 10, disclosed is a method step prompting a customer to enter a customername, a password and personal profile; transmitting an entered name customername, password and personal profile information to a network server; storing the customername, password and personal profile information in the network server; and enabling the customer to access at least a portions of the website by subsequent entry of the entered customername and password.

Art Unit: 3644

As to claim 11, disclosed is a method step wherein the personal prescription history includes past prescriptions.

As to claim 12, disclosed is a method step wherein the order includes a new prescription order.

As to claim 13, disclosed are method steps of assigning the customer a person ID number subsequent to the step of registering the customer; communicating the personal ID number to the customer via a secured communication and prompting the customer to enter the personal ID number to allow the customer to access secured portions of the website (col. 17 lines 4 - col. 18 line 7).

As to claim 14, disclosed are method steps of manually entering a customers password concerning the customer into a connection to an intranet server capable of being located in one of any of a plurality of member pharmacies and one or more centralized company locations; associating the customer to a network server and information concerning the customer currently stored in the database from the intranet server and communicating at least a customername and password, which enables the customer to access the network website, to the customer via a secured communication using the customer contact information.

Art Unit: 3644

As to claim 15, disclosed are the method steps of enabling the customer to select one or more display formats for the personal prescription history and enabling a customer to print a specific format selected by the customer from the one or more display formats.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Edelson et al. (5737539).

As to claim 2, not disclosed is a system wherein the network server displays one or more interactive webpages to the one or more customers that is viewable by the one of the one or more customers. Disclosed are a variety of interface devices and networks (col. 44, lines 33-45). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to comprise the system of Edelson et al. with interactive webpages to create a more customer friendly interface.

As to claim 16, not disclosed is the method step of selecting the prescription to be manually picking up from a pharmacy and shipped to a designated postal address. Disclosed is the prescription being ordered from a pharmacy and it is well known in the art of ordering to have a customer pick up the item at the store or have it mailed to the customer. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to comprise the method with having a selection of manually picking up the prescription from a pharmacy and being mailed to a designated postal address, to create a choice for the customer of where to pick up the prescription.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

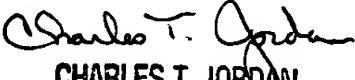

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
